Docker containers package an application with its dependencies.
A container image is immutable and runs the same on any host.